NEW CHAIRPERSON FOR SAACI'S NORTHERN TERRITORIES BRANCH ELECTED

Ciné Dunkley, sales manager at the Gallagher Convention Centre, has been elected as chairperson of the Northern Territories Branch of the Southern African Association for the Conference Industry (SAACI).

She succeeds Lorin Bowen, who now serves as vice-chairperson on the association's national board, and will hold the position for the next two years.

"Through her active involvement in SAACI over the past year, Ciné has established a reputation for making things happen," says Bowen. "Her background in sales and her management style, which puts the customer first, is a win for both."

Dunkley has been involved in the events industry for the last seven years, filling various positions at Gallagher Convention Centre. She was promoted to sales manager in December 2009 and recently passed the Certified Meeting Professional (CMP) exam.
